Why Tile?

NATURAL PROTECTION

Attic temperatures measured using identical heat sources simulating the sun's radiation comparing Newpoint™ Cool Roof System to a common asphalt shingle installation. The result is less heat in the attic and lower energy bills.

Code Approval: Some approvals are regional and only apply to locally produced products; please contact Newpoint™ before transporting product across state lines. Specifically, products used in the Miami Dade County region of Florida require special testing and recognition. All tiles are Class A fire rated.

Disclaimer: The printed colors shown in this brochure may vary from actual available tile colors. Before making a final selection, be sure to review actual tile samples and roof installations. Please contact your local sales office for further assistance. Inadvertent errors in this publication are subject to change without notice. No performance guarantee is offered or implied beyond that expressly indicated.

Efflorescence is a temporary surface condition which is common to all concrete products. The process is caused by the chemical nature of cement. This reaction can appear as an overall chalky white bloom (a softening of color) or in more concentrated patches. It is difficult to predict how long the effects of efflorescence will last. It depends on the type and amount of deposit as well as local weather conditions. The action of carbon dioxide and rainwater will gradually remove the deposit, in most cases, leaving the original color of the roof intact without further efflorescence occurring. It is superficial and in no way affects the quality or functional properties of the tile.

Installation: According to the Tile Roofing Institute loading guidelines, "To achieve a pleasant, random blend of color for your job, care should be taken upon loading to mix the tiles." (Source: 2015 Concrete and Clay Roof Tile Installation Manual). Please consult the Tile Roofing Institute (TRI) Installation guides for application recommendations.
